Cardinal Ritter High School • Indianapolis, Indiana

CARDINAL RITTER
HIGH SCHOOL

... happening. It never ends with any memory of it, but on and on, each season more change, each month a new plan, and each minute a new idea.

Conducting a school like Ritter takes a great deal of know-how, patience, and understanding. Meeting and solving problems has consistently been a major goal of the administration. As principal, Father William Cleary has given Raiders the leadership they needed. Father Clarence Waldon, Guidance Director, has provided all with guidance in the search for themselves. Acting as vice-principal and Dean of Students, Father Anthony Etienne dealt competently with problems of discipline and student government.

Administration: Ritter's Master Control

The duties of Sister Eileen are many and varied. In addition to helping students such as Mike Hall with their scheduling, Sister is Director of Studies and an instructor of speech and English.

Greeting all with her bubbly voice, Mrs. Hennessey cheerfully carries out her job as Teacher Clerk. To aid Ritter's teachers requires a good sense of humor.

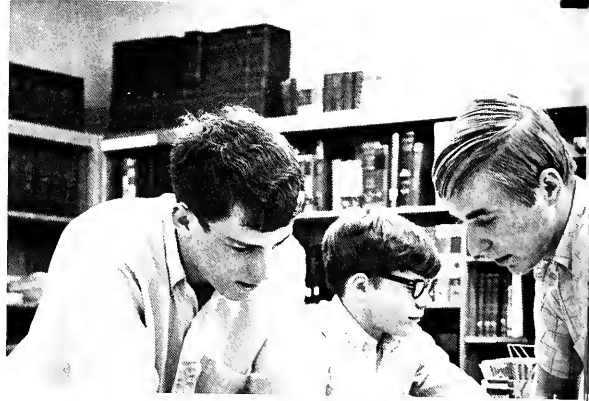

Mrs. McKenna, Ritter's busy bookkeeper, works to keep Ritter out of the red and in the black.

Who isn't familiar with the popular Miss B? Miss Anita Bordenkecker has the occasion to know all the students in her post as secretary.

Teacher Clerk, Mrs. Doyle duplicates tests for busy Ritter teachers.

Fall

Fall: crisp, colorful, brisk, breezy, a season of change, of action, a welcome relief from the sweltering, lingering days of summer. Ritter, in the fall, reflects this change and action. New teachers, new students, new traditions to be set, and a new government give the school a fresh look. The flurry of football, field trips and mixers show that Ritter is where it's happening.

Hinduism in India, Buddhism in Japan, and Lutheranism in southern Indiana are only three of the many religions studied in Mr. Chondler's Comparative Religion classes.

Anticipating news of the coming week's activities, these sophomores and juniors can hardly wait to read Mr. Erwin's outline.

Who will answer them? Trying to find the answer to this puzzling question, Fr. Hubbs helps Patty Stephanidis, Judy Pratt, Barb Tritipo, Bill Doyle, and Rosalie Barborich find Revelation in a collage in Christian Guidance.

"Con Dios Todo, Sin Dios Nada" - With God Everything, Without God Nothing - one of many theories discussed by Fr. Walden's Christian Formation class.

Religion: The Art of Living, Loving

Religion is a subject which reaches even the transistorized teenage world. Religion was founded on Love, and the word pops up everywhere. Boyfriends say it to their girlfriends, mothers say it to their children, toddlers whisper it to their teddy bears. Love is everywhere there is life and in Ritter's religion class, from freshman Christian Guidance to senior Current Problems/Family Living, the true meaning of love is cultivated to grow.

From the puzzled looks on these freshman faces, Fr. Pyatt must have proposed a rather weighty question.

Will the shrewd attempts of prosecuting attorney, Buddy McAtee force Judge Bill Pesel to sentence Ann Metallic? The jury must decide her fate in this scene adapted from Susan Glaspell's play, "Trifles."

English Classes: A Wide Angle View

These sophomores proved to be real winners when they practiced presentation and acceptance speeches for Sister Sarah's English II class.

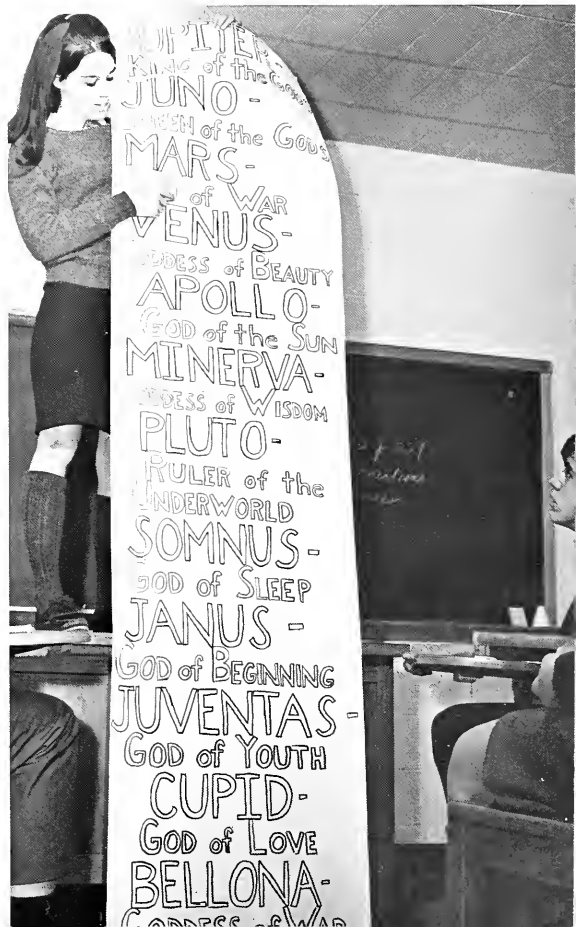

How did the English language get from classical Latin to un-classical American slang? Freshmen Barb McNeil, Shiela Nahas and Bill Lewis use a map of Europe to find out.

Perhaps Apalla has inspired Cathy Lauhoff to discuss the gods with classmates Buddy McAtee and Becky Sperry.

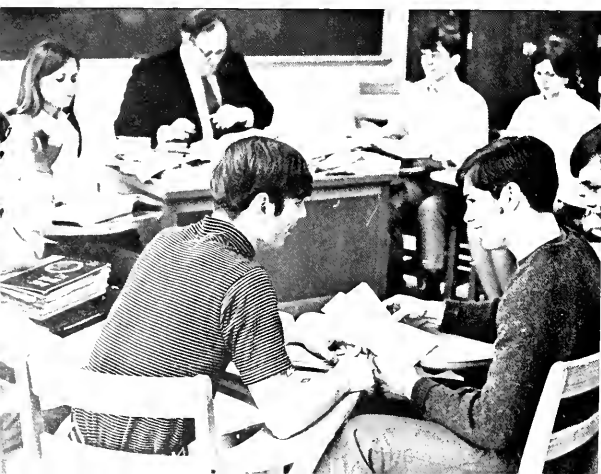

Diane Lekse, Ann Fitzgerald, Dawn Bertrang, Pam Wagoner, and Phylis Lovisek search for ideas to illustrate their theme, "Loving is Giving."

Latin language pupils test their pronunciation skills by recording passages from "Julius Caesar." Chris Metallic, Julie West, and Tony Nickoloff listen as Barb Dillon recites.

Displaying the proficiency they've gained in their French studies, senior Steve Beck and junior Ron Doyle recite a dialogue for the class.

Languages Focus On People

Learning a language is not just the memorizing and conjugating it sometimes seems to be. It is learning the way people think and live. Students become acquainted with customs, foods, wines, art and architecture of various regions. With the use of records, magazines, novels, and plays, students take on the role of the people that they study. Through these activities, they come to a greater appreciation and understanding of the culture of foreign communities.

Rouge? Vert? Bleu? Mr. Wyeth drills "colors" with his first level French class.

Mrs. Bieberick points out an historical landmark in Colombia for Mike Noel and Mike Hall. Students in all Spanish classes made maps of Spain, and Central and South America.

Arts Courses Stress Cultural Values

Mrs. Hamm instructs Mike Froelich and Mike McKenna on the use of paper mache in "antique" vase making.

From instructor Mr. Hinkle, Tom Weaver and other music appreciation students learn that one step in a music education is appreciation of composers and their contribution to musical history.

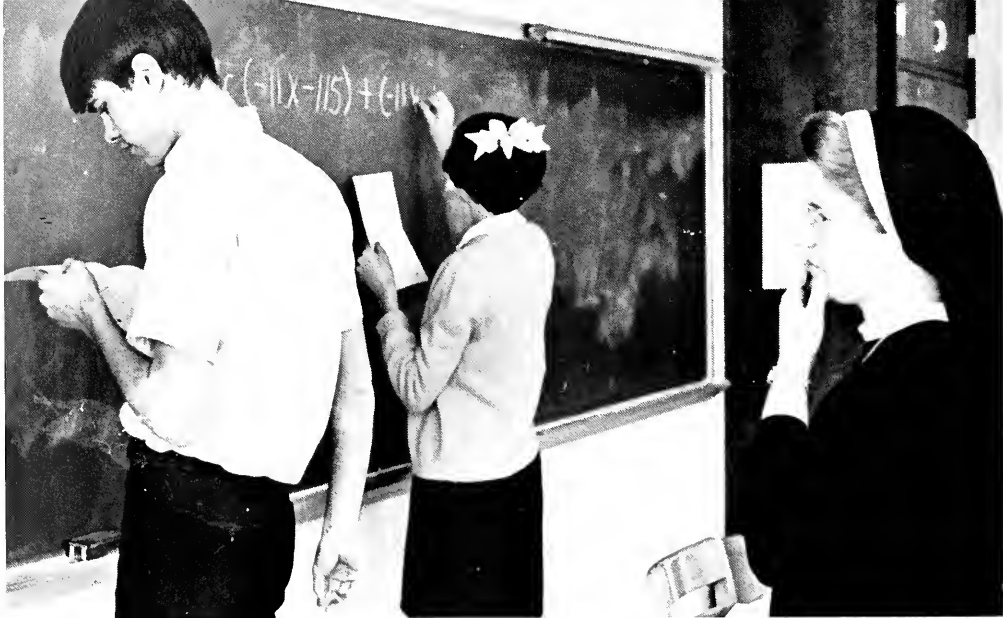

In the cultural values class, Mr. Hinkle draws attention to interior design and furniture arrangements in Mary Ann Crugnale's "house." Joe Lampert, Phyllis Loviscek, Jeff Niese, Terry Easmann, and Clara Trauner look on.

Mr. John Mills demonstrates the intricacies of the patter's wheel. Mr. Mills operates a ceramics shop in Antique Alley, part of the Nashville art colony.

With Mrs. Hamm and art museum officials as guides, the art classes tour the John Herran Art Institute during the Indiana Artists' Exhibition.

The requirements for success in Sister Mercita's pre-algebra class seem to be chalk dust and brains, as Jim Manning and Theresa Schaeffer puzzle over an equation.

If a plane is tangent to a sphere, does that mean an index card touches a volleyball in only one point? Sister Mercita's geometry class discovers the truth.

Mathematics = Logic + Creativity

Try to imagine a point in space, or the opposite of a number. Picture a plane or the set of real numbers.

Mathematics requires not only the exactness of a science, but the creativity of an art. At Ritter these qualities are combined and the result is a highly successful math department.

Algebra I students, Dave Jahnstan, Dave Hubbard, Russ Engels, Ron Kriech, Jeff Dakin, and Dave Osborne pool their efforts to find correct answers. Group therapy?

Cindy Schallaert, Bab Dean, Diane Lekse, Alice Miller, and Becky Turk realize the necessity for speed and accuracy when Sister Mercedes' flashcards challenge their Algebra I class.

Biology students are fascinated by the study of a worm's digestive system. Mr. Staddan examines the incision techniques followed by Mary Ellen Cross and Chris Metallic.

Biology: Unlocking the Secret of Life

No one at Ritter has ever had trouble finding room 101, the Biology Lab. The infamous omnifarious smells, that creep under the door and escape into the halls, are signs that no one with all five senses could possibly ignore. Experiments with gerbils and white rats in wire cages; the dissecting of sharks; and the boa constrictor who hides in the Chemistry Lab all add to the general hub-bub.

Retrieving the boa constrictor from the Chemistry lab where it had been hiding, Mark Armstrong, Mr. Staddon, and Joe Stevens grasp the snake to prevent further escapes.

Pom Outlow describes the movements of the amoeba to Mr. Rott, her Biology teacher; while Kevin Miller waits his turn to peer through the microscope.

One way to conserve plant life Joe Stevens, Mork Armstrong, and Tom Riley discover is to test the nutrient content of the soil.

Scooping fish out of the aquarium with a net, Tom Riley, Joe Stevens, and Mork Armstrong filter the water to provide oxygen for the fish.

Mr. Lucos coaches Kris Ringwood, the one and only girl taking the course, on a design of modern mechanical drawing skills.

Mechanical Arts Designs Future

The two courses in Ritter's Mechanical Arts Department, mechanical drawing and shop, are projected into the future. Mechanical drawing is essential toward an engineering career, and students in shop learn some of the fundamentals of working with wood. There is a distinct advantage in being able to design one's house and to be able to build some of its furnishings.

Tim Strange, Steve Sabo, Tom Weaver, Rick Strong, and Chuck Heyob look for flaws in the craftsmanship of a bookcase, one of the many projects turned out by the shop class.

The score is tied! Jo Ellen Cooper tries to make the winning free throw for her team, while Clara Caito and Miss Scott, girls' phys ed teacher, wait to call the shot.

Phys Ed Builds Bodies 12 Ways

"Up, 1, 2, 3! Up, 1, 2, 3! Up, 1, 2, 3!" Sit-ups are a pain to some Ritter freshmen in phys ed. But in the end, it all works out and everyone is satisfied. Happily, exercises aren't the only form of activity the freshmen participate in. There is basketball, baseball, and badminton. There is track, tennis, and tumbling. For the girls there is ballet, while in boys' gym, more masculine sports are encouraged.

As the old Romans said, "A sound mind in a sound body." Following this theory, Mr. Henderson takes charge of body building and gives the guys a real workout.

Go! Go! Raiders We've Got Spirit

A number of weirdos showed up at the Halloween Dance sponsored by the Explorer's Club. While Sam Holly would rather live his life as a blond, Kirk Cesnik thinks brunettes have more fun.

Will the sisterly advice, showered on freshmen by eager seniors, be taken to heart?

Punch and cookies, just like mather used to make, are treats for the girls at the Freshman-Senior party.

"The Studer Sisters," Paula, Anne, Edna, and Martha, belt out a modern folk ballad at the Haatenanny sponsored by the Ritter Reporter.

Ritter Cheerleaders Rate 'On Top'

It's easy to support the great Raider teams, but it's a lot harder when you have skits, pep sessions, posters, and cheers to prepare, too. But our cheerleaders came up with many imaginative ideas to bolster school spirit. Among them was the contest in which the four classes participated. Each week the class exhibiting the most school spirit at the game was awarded the "spirit stick."

Through the efforts of moderator, Mrs. Scott, and captain of the varsity cheerleaders, Mary Perry, many clever and unique cheers were devised.

Arousing spirit at the pep sessions these red hat sophomores urge the students to "Fire up for a victory!"

Dynamic Team Pulverizes Foes

Head coach Mr. Davison barks commands to starting lineup as the team prepares for Attucks clash.

Review of offensive strategy is given by assistant coach Hagist to Ritter teammates Mike Purichia and Tim Petersen.

Diving for an incompleted pass during crucial moments in the Chartard conflict is Raider Harry Dunn.

The dynamic Roider team enacts their power sweep, rolling over the Attucks Tigers to gain precious yardage in their 19-7 romp.

In an attempt to foil the pass, Addison Simpson rushes upon unaware Chatard receiver.

Ready to connect on a pass touchdown, offensive end Tim Peterson leaps before stunned Trojan.

Athletic director, Mr. Velikan, is the administrator of all activities of the athletic department. Among his "behind the scenes" duties are game scheduling, hiring of officials, ticket selling and equipment buying.

Two Make All-City Team

This year football players Greg Metallic and Mike Purichia achieved their own Ritter "first" by being named to the Star's All-City team as defensive guard and punter, respectively. Both were honored at a city-wide banquet which featured Mayor Lugar as guest speaker. Those who made Honorable Mention to the All-City were seniors Addison Simpson, Terry Taphorn, and John Timme; and juniors Jim Farrell and Tim Peterson. Team members were selected by the coaches, game observers and Star sports writers.

Ritter was also represented on the Capital District team by Terry Taphorn, tackle; Greg Metallic, guard; John Timme, line-backer; Ron Doyle, halfback; and Mike Purichia, punter.

Congratulations are in order for all team members and coaches for a very fine performance.

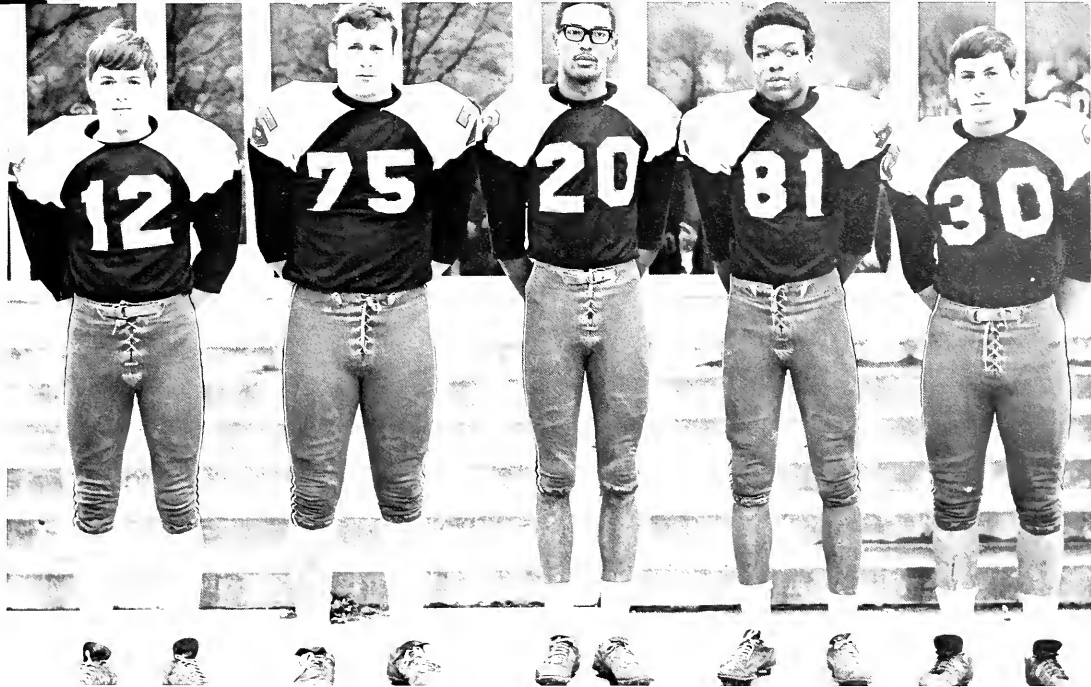

Defensive back for All-City, Greg Metallic, received this honor as a result of making the most tackles of the city's high school players. Mike Purichia had the city's best punting average, kicking better than 41 yards per try. Mike's quarterbacking abilities were commended through an Honorable Mention to All-State as quarterback.

Awards were presented to the exceptional team members at Ritter's own football banquet at the end of the season at which Mr. Bill Perry spoke in behalf of the Dad's Booster Club. Terry Taphorn accepts a trophy from Coach Duffy Hagist.

All-City Honorable Mention Raiders were defensive back Jim Farrell, tackle Terry Taphorn, halfback Addison Simpson, end Tim Peterson, and linebacker John Timme.

Raiders toasted the first graduation class of '69 at their initial Homecoming celebration. Ritter spirit was high for the battle against Seccina at CYO Field. A motorcade, cheering fans, fabulous floats, and a half time show at which senior Jerri Lauhoff was crowned "Queen" were part of it all.

Winter

Winter sparkles. The snow on the ground blinds us and the time slips through our fingers without our even realizing it. Christmas vacation begins, then suddenly we are studying for exams. We go to our first basketball game, then all at once we are decorating homerooms for Booster Week. For active Raiders, it's a happening world and Raiders on the move make it happen.

What's a Junior made of? Snips and snails and puppy dog tails—or is it sugar and spice and everything nice? Actually, they're a combination of these ingredients flavored with enthusiasm, spirit and lots of ambition.

Every one of our 127 Junior Raiders possesses these qualities which has been shown by their successful sponsoring of the candy drive, the Junior-Senior Prom and a thoroughly enjoyable talent show.

When it comes to talking of class officers, the Juniors have some of the best. With a woman president, Susie McAtee; a woman secretary, Kathy Brooks; and a woman treasurer, Patty Quinn (not pictured), how can you possibly go wrong? Poor Ron Doyle, vice-president, is surrounded by women! On second thought, maybe he isn't so poor after all.

Unusual faces have appeared in Home Ec. Projects have switched from skirts and dresses to Nehru jackets and chef aprons. The Food Service and Tailoring class armed with mixing bowls and spoons model their own creations, chef aprons and hats.

Sister Jane Francis shows Debbie Ewing and Pam Hally that "Simplicity" is the word for completing their sewing projects in Home Ec. II.

Home Ec.—Coed; Boys: Cook, Sew

"Do I have to rip it out again?" "Sister, the cake didn't rise!" The Ritter student learns from his failures as well as from his successes. Home Ec. as well as Food Service and Tailoring have given students practical experience with both. The ripped-out facing leads to a perfect formal. The insipid cake brings about a delightful dessert. The addition of a special class for boys provided equal opportunities for a practical arts education. Ritter's Home Ec. Dept. definitely has the recipe for success in home living.

Modern living through electricity was demonstrated to the Food Service and Tailoring class when Mrs. LeVonchy of the Power and Light Company prepared on exotic dish.

Nehru jackets have become the proper attire for the distinguished American male. Bob Kuykendall decides to be a "do-it-yourselfer" in order to climb the social ladder.

Portraying the third apparition conjured up by the three witches, Becky Purichia warns Macbeth of pending tragedy.

Making use of available audio-visual equipment, Sister Francis Assisi expounds on the studies of junior English students.

English Emphasizes Communications

Improvement in communication and self-expression were the main goals dominating Ritter English and journalism classes. Potential "greats" read and analyzed works of famous writers as a means of bettering their own style. Each student tested his skill with short themes, term papers, and the composition of an original newspaper. Plays were enacted, ideas were broadcast on the radio, and anthologies were compiled. These assignments gave the students necessary experience in actual communications.

As an English assignment, Debbie Wise, Louann Grady, Linda Vogel, and Bob Miller designed plans for a Utopia and were later asked to broadcast these plans on radio WSMJ of Greenfield.

In observance of National Newspaper Week, October 6-12, journalism students examined newspapers from all over the country. In this class, interested potential journalists study techniques of newspaper writing.

Reporting, Writing Comprise Journalism

Ritter's Teen Scene reporter, Solly Wetzler, (second from left) reviews the play "Rosecrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead" with actress Joann Rose and fellow journalists, Randy Moser and Diana

Daniel. Solly was among the Teen Scene correspondents who were guests at the opening of the play.

Ritter Reporter Records '68-'69 Story

Published six times this year, the "Ritter Reporter" recorded student news and views in its new compact 8½ x 6½ format introduced last fall. Staff members also contributed to local publications such as the "Teen Star" and the "Teen Scene," covered local civic, educational, and social events, and participated in various publications workshops.

Martha Ryan, a first place winner, advertising; and Mary Milharic, third place, editorials, brought honor to Ritter at the Quill and Scroll Press Day held at Secunia Memorial.

Sister Francis Assisi "pins" the new members of the Quill and Scroll Journalism Honorary: Marilyn Trauner; Patty Crawford and Mary Milharic, "Ritter Reporter" editors; Renee Treadwell; Carol Wethington.

Final check of copy and paste-up has the attention of editors Mary Milharic and Patty Crawford, and their assistants Craig Petree, Marilyn Trauner, and Renee Treadwell.

Typing perfect copy for the printer is an important step in publications for Janet Cerva, Patty Passhall, and Chris Metallic.

Viewing the finished product, Photography Club officers Maureen Boskerville, treasurer; Dana LaCivita, vice-president; Chris Kubiak, secretary; Jim Sychalski, president; and Dave Legge, dark room manager, unanimously agree upon the success of their photography.

Think, Judge, Act! These three principles outlined the duties of YCS'ers in their quest to serve Ritter, the community and all people. Leaders of Ritter's YCS were Barb Tratter, vice-president;

Dave Mulvey, director of expansion; Sam Hally, president; Jady Binhack, treasurer; Chris Kubiak, secretary, with Fr. Etienne as moderator.

Oscar, the boa constrictor, demands undivided attention from Science Club officers: Jill Stewart, president; Cathy Briskey, secretary; Cheryl Markovic, treasurer; and Patty Treadwell, vice-president. Members of the club visited Chicago and the Indianapolis Zoo as a part of the club's program. Mr. Staddon was club moderator.

Members Gain By Giving

Serving as proctors during the administration of the high school entrance exams were members of the Guidance Club: Diane Schnittgen, Patty Bayle, Mary Sekula, and Marilyn Trauner.

Guidance Club officers Marilyn Trauner, president, and Denise Schutte, treasurer, discuss future club activities with moderator Father Waldan. The Guidance Club administered tests, posted current information on colleges and careers, and kept the guidance section of the library equipped with college catalogues, financial aids bulletins and other information concerning post-high school training and careers.

Under the direction of Sister Jane Frances, officers of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade Tam Fitzgerald, treasurer; Steve Beck, president; Betty Reeves, secretary; and Carol Beaven, vice-president, prepared boxes of canned goods for the Little Sisters of the Poor on Thanksgiving in addition to their year-long task of raising money for the missions.

One of the many fields looked into by the Explorer's Post was the medical profession. Guided by Mrs. Reynolds, a registered nurse, members of the club toured Marian County General Hospital.

The Explorer's Post, designed to help students choose careers, visited various businesses, hospitals, and airports during the year. President of the club, Randy Hoss, gives a preliminary outline of trips to be taken to fellow officers Tom Fitzgerald, vice-president; Greg Metallic, representative to the city council; Carol Wethington, secretary; Greg Young, vice-president; Mike Kuehn, representative; and Chris Collet, treasurer.

"Whose turn is it?" Burr Simpson (42) and Mike Turner can't decide who gets the rebound while Hamilton Southeastern's Dave Musselman thinks that taking the ball for himself is the perfect solution.

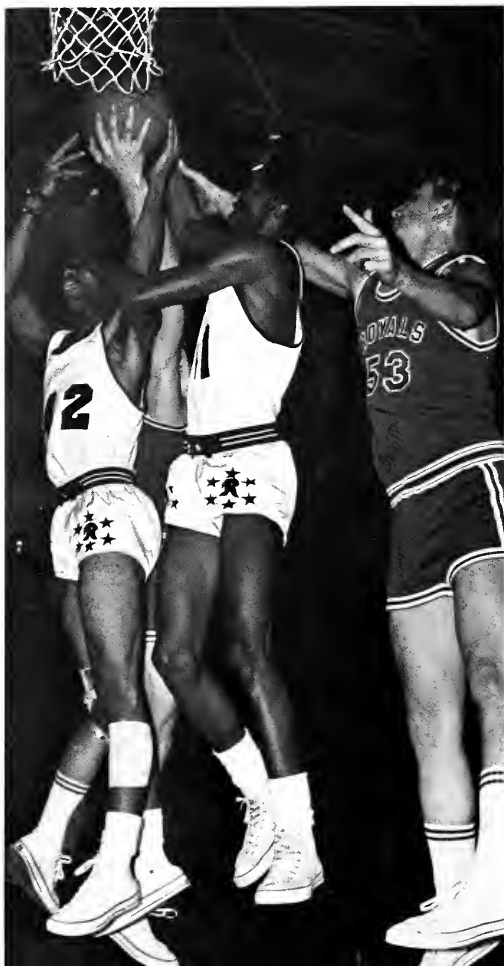

Tip-off star Mike Turner (11) bats the ball to teammate Mike Hall (10) to open another exciting quarter of play.

Varsity Shoots for High Goals

"Reach for the stars" seemed to be the motto for the Raider Varsity basketball team, and they reached! Burr Simpson and Joe Rosner brought down 207 rebounds apiece while Mike Hall tossed in 111 field goals and 98 free throws.

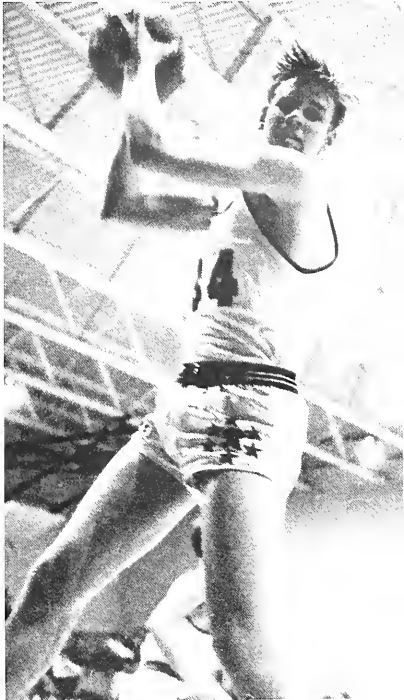

Team efforts established an all time high for Ritter of 90 points scored in one game and the longest school winning streak of 7 games. Under the watchful eye of coach Henderson, jumping, hustling, shooting, passing, pivoting, and dribbling were perfected through extensive practice so that the team could clinch a 15-6 winning record.

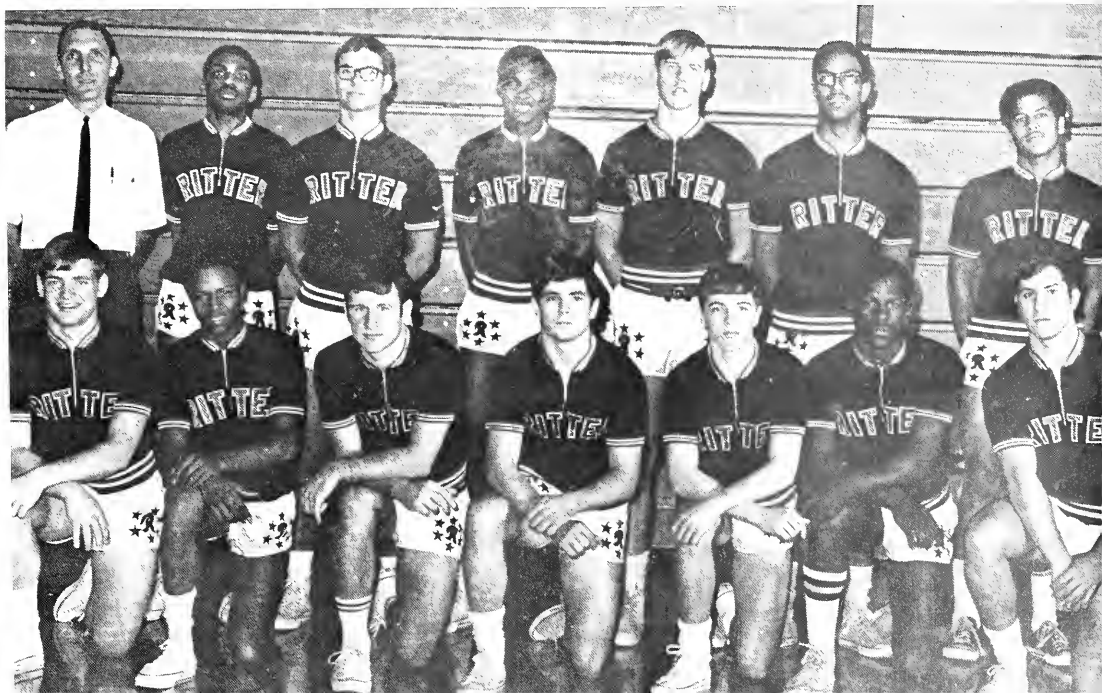

Ritter players Joe Rosner (34), Mike Hall (10), Burr Simpson (42), and Jim Thomas (44) snap to retrieve a loose ball dropped by a clumsy Chartrand player.

High in the air, Joe Rosner snatches the rebound to give Ritter the upper hand on the opposite side of the court.

Tim Kinser, and Mike Unterreiner, and Coach Staddon were proud of the 7-6 record compiled during the season.

Raider Wrestlers Throttle Opposition

Hold, throw, decision, pin. Wrestling has its own language, different from all other sports. The factor that never changes in all Ritter sports is the Raiders' winning record. Mike Purichia is "the man" with the best record, 13-0-0; best percentage of wins, 100%; most decisions, 7; and most points total, 51. Jerry Bradford, a sophomore, had the most pins, 71; and was also named in the 30 Point Club. With the victories of these and other Raider grapplers, Trino Villegas, Terry Taphorn, Mark Kestler, Joe Agan, and Mark Matkovic, Ritter finished her season 7-6 and took 8th place in the Sectionals.

Mike Purichia, the Raider with the best record, is a junior looking forward to a better season next year, which may be difficult since he had 100% wins this season.

While collecting for the heart fund, Sue McAtee jots down the names of juniors who "have a heart."

Karen Tapham accepts the trophy that officially made Ritter the "Schaal with the Biggest Heart."

Happenings

The Tri M. Ritter's musical association, sponsored an assembly for the Indianapolis Percussion Ensemble.

Kathy and Karen Hendersan look forward to being cheerleaders in 1982.

Father Cleary and Mr. Johnson, Ritter Parents' Club president, talk with Dr. Nicholas Nyaradi following his appeal to Ritter students to "appreciate" America's greatness.

In the heat of competition, senior Ken Kuper comes through when Ritter made its first appearance an Exercise in Knowledge.

The faculty triumphs again. Mr. Staddan scores in spite of the blocking attempts of Steve Parsholl. The game was part of Booster Week activities.

Senior scores bring no smiles to the faces of faculty fans.

International Dinner: Eat, Drink, And Be Merry

The Latin Club with their moderator, Sister Sarah, began its preparations for the International Dinner with a meeting of all its members to decide upon decorations and menu.

Colorful piñatas were hung from the ceiling to give the occasion the authentic atmosphere of a Spanish fiesta.

Although the fountain was an impressive sight, a real Roman slave, Mory Ellen Cross, attracted the attention of Mr. and Mrs. Wethington and Carol.

Caesar Staddon, attended by Chris Metallic and Susie Johnston, toasted the health of all the patrons of the culinary arts who came to the banquet.

Mr. Wyeth was cast in the role of master chef as he directed the behind-the-scenes activity in the kitchen.

Linda Vogel, Clara Trauner, and Meg Trauner learn that "all that glitters is not gold" - it is clean dishes.

Mortha Ryan, Louann Grady, Mrs. Grady, Mr. Schmutte, and Dave Mulvey dined in the French manner. The meal included Salade Nînon and Boeuf Bourguignon.

Spring—Summer

It's April-spring! The energy of spring fever takes over! Hit that ball! Get that date! Live! Action! Term papers must be finished; track scores must be recorded; caps and gowns must be delivered. The Band's "Spring Swing" sets the pace for Ritter happenings.

Religion, Revelation Relate to Student Life

Posters and the bulletin board supply food-for-thought and create the atmosphere of Father Etienne's Current Problems and Family Living course. But these are no substitute for Father himself. As you can see, everyone pays close attention when he speaks. In the second semester the seniors prepared projects related to marriage and the family.

Comparative Religion class, another step in the ecumenical movement, gives students an objective and complete view of many of the world's other faiths. Joan Hasenjager, after researching the religion she chose, gives a class presentation of its basic doctrines and practices.

The main theme of the sophomore and junior Christian Formation classes was revelation. Father Waldan tried to impress upon his students that revelation is not just in the Bible, but it is present in everyday life. Father, George Cox, Dick Evans, Dennis Marter, Kirk Cesnik and Clarence Griffin listen to another person who has found a new way to gain insight.

Language Arts Offers Varied Program

In preparation for a class presentation of "Hamlet", seniors Charlie Reidy and Joe Lentz use spare time to practice their lines in the gravediggers' scene.

Sister Francis Ellen shows Phil Fax the advantages there are to the Resource Center. Records, tape recordings, and film strips are available to give additional material relative to regular classes.

The speech class, who were beginning a section on explanatory speeches, learned from their superiors.

Mrs. Adra Wheeler from the Indiana Bell Telephone Company was a guest speaker for the speech class. Discussing the impressions given by the voice over the telephone, she asked senior Joe Agon to volunteer to illustrate the ideas she had presented.

After their performance of Oliver Goldsmith's play, "She Stoops to Conquer," the Sycamore Players relax in the cafeteria with members of the speech class.

Tony Lumpkin and his mother Mrs. Hardcastle are involved in a heated argument. Mrs. Hardcastle believes Tony would be very happy married to her niece, but he is a confirmed bachelor.

Business Moves with the Times

The Business Department has really been "on the move." Three new teachers, Mrs. Wonder, Mr. Davisson, and Mr. Erwin, joined the staff. Calculators, electric typewriters, and shorthand dictation records have been added to give Ritter's students complete and practical training in the mechanics of business.

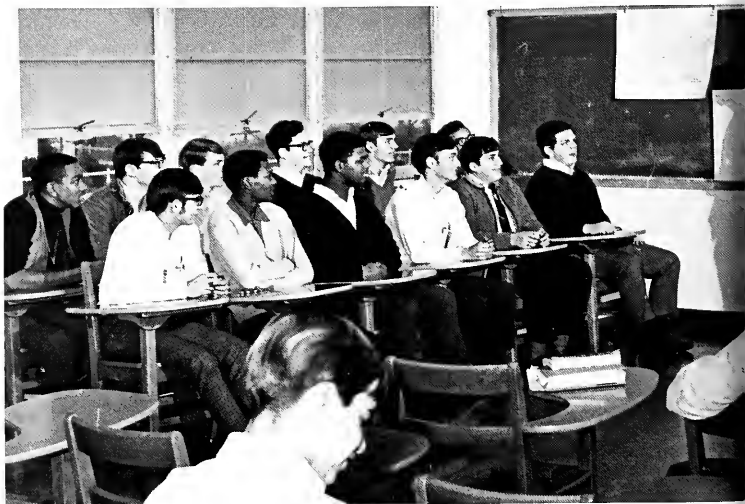

Where to set margins, how to space, and when to capitalize is valuable knowledge in the typing classes. No room for hunt-and-peck people here.

Now that he is finished with witness John Turk, Malcolm McClure turns to the jury to summarize. Evidently they're smiling because he promised to be brief.

Meg and Marilyn Trauner were representatives of Ritter in the spring Business Contest held at Secina. Marilyn took first place honors in bookkeeping and Meg won the fifth place award in typing.

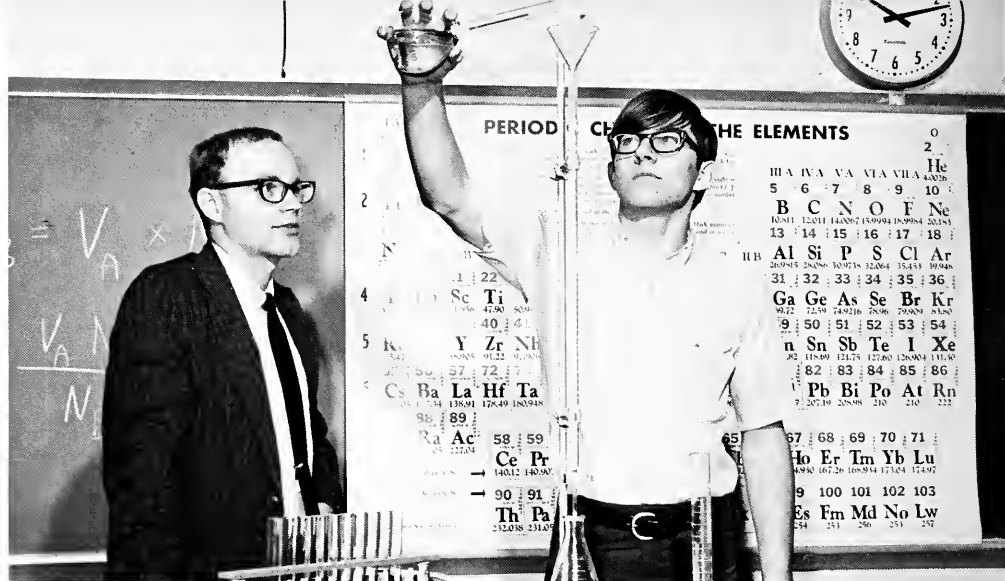

Balancing your books is a very delicate procedure, and accuracy is vital. As Bill Engels, Mary Siler, Mindy Randall, John Timme, Jerry Jazwiak, and Steve Saba will tell you, Mr. Velikan is always busy helping them find the last penny.

Kathleen Miller, Patty Boyle, and Karen Lambert seem to already have half of what it takes to make a good secretary: neat appearance and a pleasant personality. Now, working with Mrs. Wander, they try to attain the ability and skill that are also essential to a secretary.

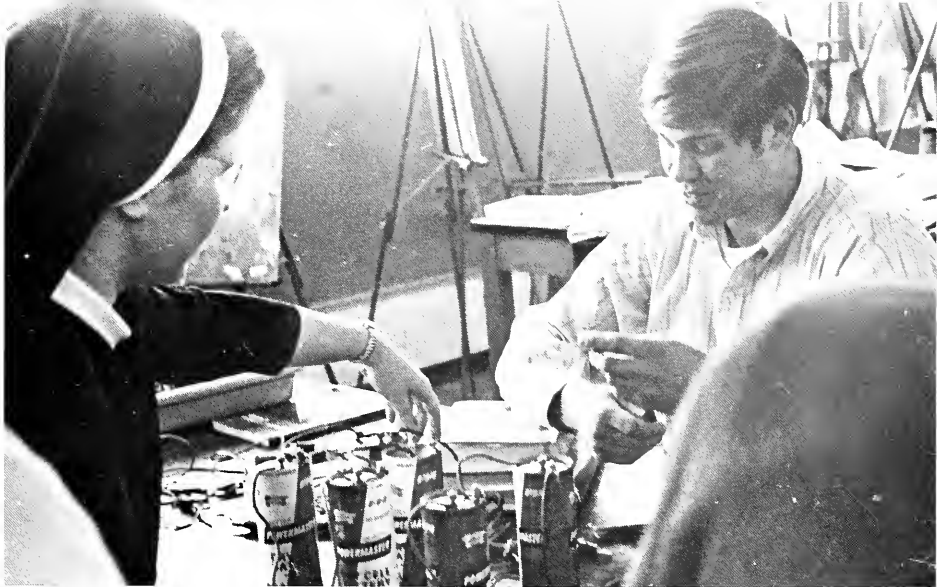

Will it explode? Will yet another strange odor escape into the downstairs hall? Chemistry instructor Mr. Roff looks on in apprehension as Don Rinker pours the fateful fluid.

Math, Science Probe New Worlds

Ritter seems to have developed some "drop-ins" in the form of Ladywood Math IV students Karen Robinson, Mary Siener, Anne Van Comp, and their teacher, Sister Mary John.

With several dry cell batteries, Sister Mercita and Greg Metallic are getting a charge out of physics.

According to his Math IV students, Mr. Mulhern has discovered a whole new use for the desks. Randy Hass, Chris Collet, Jeff Neese, Jeonie Hagelskamp, Marilyn Trauner and Patty Treadwell watch as he cools his heels.

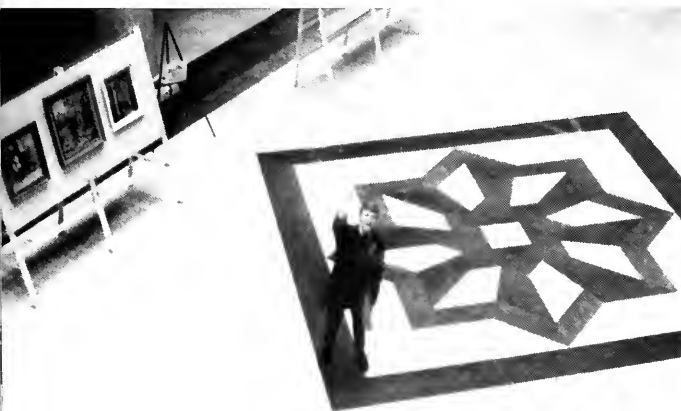

Mary Siler seems slightly uninterested as Mr. Staddon expounds some of the great secrets of life to his advanced biology class.

Spinning a disc by Samuel Morison for his government class, Mr. Hagist concludes his lecture on Jacksonian Democracy.

Social Studies Focus on World Scene

Variety is the word in Ritter's government-sociology classes. For a unit on investments, Raiders "played" the stock market. Day by day, they followed the ticker tape machine and scanned the paper's stock market charts to see if they would make a million, or lose their shirts. As another activity, students toured the Indiana Legislature to watch Indiana's state government in action. Of course, there were also term paper deadline dates creeping up and mad rushes to the typing room for last minute corrections. During the '68 presidential election, the seniors were lost in the flurry of the campaign. Speeches, literature, and posters gave Ritter the air of campaign headquarters. In addition to regular class lectures, records, movies, guest speakers and student projects provided more variety to the course.

During the sociology class's trip to the Indiana State Legislature, Ken Kuper waves "Aloha."

For part of Mary Milharcic's sociology project, she invited as speaker Mr. Green from the Juvenile Delinquency Center.

Who will win the debate between the Rotten Apples and the Opposition? Mr. Mears collects the ballots while Charlie Reidy, president of the Rotten Apples, Bill Engels, and Terry Taphorn, president and vice-president of the Opposition, anxiously await the results.

Sociology students listen as Mr. Phillips, Chairman of the Board of Parole, speaks on "Institutions on State Level."

"Everyone wants to get into the act" - to put names on the Honor Roll Board. Core of the board was just one of the responsibilities of the National Honor Society which was led by officers:

Carol Wethington, treasurer; Debbie Delano, vice-president; Patty Treadwell, president; and Cannie Tolson, secretary; Society moderator was Sister Eileen.

NHS Scholars True Leaders

The Ritter chapter of the National Honor Society was composed of Ritter students who were active leaders of the school. By means of concentrated efforts the society sponsored an assembly for club orientation and an extremely successful bake sale. Father George Elford, Superintendent of Archdiocese schools, was guest speaker at the induction ceremonies in which 18 new members were accepted into the organization.

Since leadership is a basis by which members are selected, each scholar had exhibited his leadership abilities and continued exhibiting them in the NHS and in other organizations, acting in their full capacity as leaders of Cardinal Ritter.

Meg Trauner, (right) gives a big smile of approval as her sister Marilyn receives congratulations from Father Cleary at the National Honor Society induction ceremony.

Board Revises Student Court

Booster Week and the Computer Dance made-up the activities side of the picture for the Executive Board, while the remaining time was focused on remodeling the Student Court. Officers meet throughout the summer to work out the problems and then launched the new system at the beginning of the '68-'69 year. Later, after extended discussion, planning, and changes, a Student Conduct Council was formed, complete with complaint forms and "Pig Pen."

Although a large part of the work on the Court and student communications was done behind-the-scenes, the effects were noticed and the Executive Board deserves to be congratulated for their efforts.

Numerous planning sessions helped the Executive Board officers organize successful activities for Ritter students. Consulting their moderator, Father Etienne, are officers: Connie Atelski, vice-president; Terry Taphorn, treasurer; Renee Treadwell, secretary; and Steve Parshall, president.

One of Steve Parshall's last duties as Executive Board president was to direct proceedings for election of the '69-'70 officers. Here he introduces vice-presidential candidate Mary Perry to give her campaign speech.

So that the cheerleaders can have new uniforms and go to camp, Cheryl Motkovic, Tanyo Domi, Mary Perry, and Ruth Fenoglio wash cars.

Brett Terrell and Dana LaCivita, who pooled their talents three years ago with Renee Treadwell, were star performers of the Spring Swing.

Happenings

The ballet troupe from the Jordan School of Dance interpreted modern and classical musical themes.

Prosecuting attorney Duane Fricke questions witness Glenn Gaatee in a performance of the famous courtroom scene from "The Caine Mutiny." It was staged for the entire student body by the speech class.

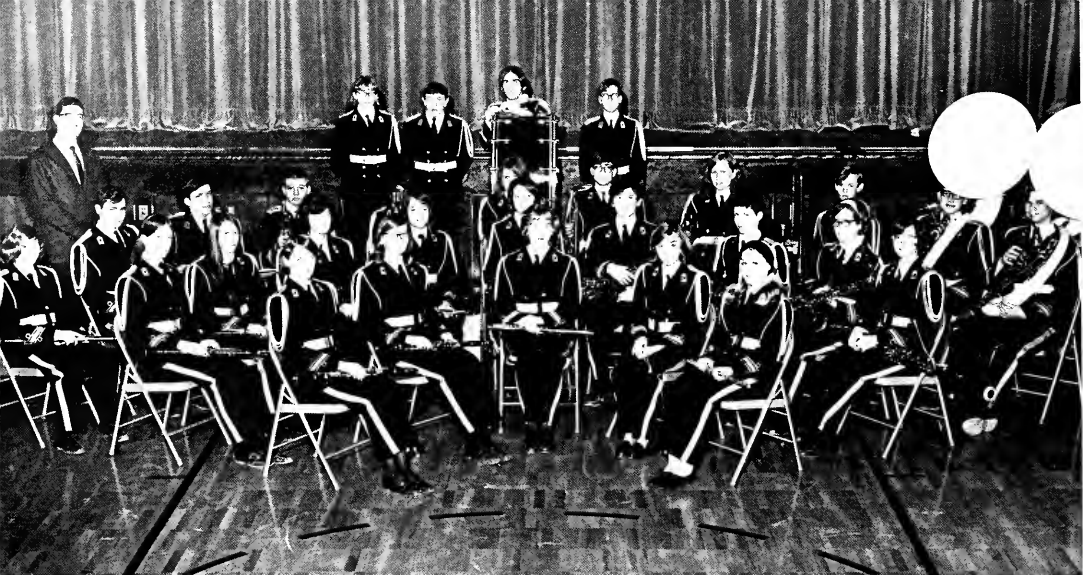

Traffic conditions in Paris and the timetable of the Metra became of acute concern to Mr. Wyeth who will spend the summer in France. Au revoir, monsieur, et bon voyage.

The fire drill called in early spring gave students a pleasant break from classes and tests.

The main floor saw little activity during the summer months. Only a few office workers and teachers haunted the echoing halls of Cardinal Ritter.

Ritter's 29 piece band, directed by Mr. Hinkle -First row: Cathy Dillon, Debbie Lambert, Clara Trauner, Carol Wethington, Ann Marie Trauner. Second row: Debbie Delano, Diana Farniga, Libby Miller, Elaine Watson, Kathy Maare, Theresa Rancourt, Bob Miller, Barb Dillan, Kathy Schuler. Third row: Cannie Thorp, Steve Roach, Jae Caita, Mark Armstrong, Angie Michael, Sandy Braun, Jae Plummer, Karen Charlton, Gearge Green, Ken Sperling, Mark McClellan. Standing: Marianne Short, Mike Unterreiner, Dana LaCivita, Tim Delana. The group produced the annual Mother's Day Concert, and presented a musical assembly in late April.

Raiders Make Music! Music! Music!

Busy! Busy! Busy! Raider musicians are a very spirited group at Ritter. The Spring Swing, featuring the Swing Choir and the dance band, the Downbeats, was first of the concerts given in spring. The Senior Day Concert, in late April, starring the senior band members in solos, and the Mother's Day concert were also successes. The Marching Band and the Baton Corps marched for the Indians in rainy April and nearly got drenched. In early summer, the Downbeats were seen on WTTV in the cancer telethon.

Admiring a trophy won at the Shelby County Fair Marching Contest, Mr. Hinkle, Band Director; Ann Marie Trauner, President and Student Directress of the Band; Debbie Delano, Drum Majorette; and Ken Sperling, Drum Major; are proud of the victories made by marching Raiders.

The Ritter Stage Band, the Downbeats, are: Libby Miller, Kevin Blandford, George Green, Ken Sperling, Sandy Braun, Barb Dillon, Joe Plummer, Kathy Schuler, Karen Charlton, Bob Miller, Mark

McClellan, Debbie Delano, and Dave Cook. The Downbeats were asked to come back to the WTTV Cancer Telethon in May.

Petree, Jim Farrell, Ron Dayle, John O'Connor, Duane Fricke, and Coach Hagist completed the varsity season 14-7 and in the Sectionals smashed Waad 21-0 in only 5 innings.

Rugged Raiders 'Sock-it-to-'Em' 14-7

John Timme, the Raider with the highest batting average, better than .350, captured Ritter's baseball award.

Juggie Adams tries to bat in Mike Purichia on 3rd to widen Ritter's lead over Wood in the Sectionals.

Strike One! During Ritter's first game of the Sectionals, pitcher Pat Hennessy puts one over the plate to catcher Juggie Adams.

Craig Petree, Ritter's 1st baseman, slides into 3rd base on a triple hit, only one of Ritter's fantastic plays during the Wood game.

While the members of the reserve and varsity teams watch the game in progress from the bench, Ron Doyle (far right) waits for his turn at the plate.

Safe? Is he or isn't he? As one unidentified sliding Raider bites the dust, only the umpire knows for sure.

The home plate umpire, Ritter's opponent catcher, Coach Henderson, and Juggie Adams on 3rd wander what this Raider is doing. Signaling the runner on 2nd? Celebrating over a long-time wished-for home run? The hulo?

Coach Henderson gives reserve catcher Dave Carr a little advice while Duane Fricke warms up to bat.

1st! 2nd! 3rd! Home! Raiders run the bases to score two more points for Ritter.

Bob Killigrew swings his wood to drive the ball off the tee to a wished-for hole-in-one.

Members of the golf team, kneeling, Dave Armstrong, Danny Maled, Mike Roberts, George Cox, Buddy McAtee; standing, Tam Fitzgerald, Jim Thomas, Greg Young, Brian Terrell, Bob Killigrew, and coach, Fr. Etienne, finished the season 3-5-1, took 3rd place in the Capital District Conference Meet and were ranked 8th in City. Brian Terrell, winner of Ritter's Golf Award is judged by Fr. Etienne to be the most valuable player.

Stupendous' Fits Golf Team to a Tee

Year's Experience Toughens Trackmen

Besides winning the varsity track award, Terry Tapharn set a school record for shotput throws.

During the season, varsity trophy winner Jae Pryor secured individual wins in the 100 and 200-yard sprints.

Jae Rasner earned a varsity track award in his outstanding showing as hurdler and high jumper.

Ritter tennis player Clarence Griffin serves the ball while teammate Tam Reese prepares to make contact for a fast return.

Steve Parshall displays the playing form developed in practice and looks ready to "sock it to 'em."

Netters Snare Unsuspecting Foes

A racket, a ball, a court, and an opponent were all Ritter tennis players needed to win a match. All other essentials—form, precision, coordination, perfect-timing, and good reflexes, were already possessed by each, as is shown by the promising season. Schools who dared to challenge Ritter with their varied teams included Shortridge, Arlington, and Park.

Best player awards were earned by Tom Reese, a freshman, and sophomore Clarence Griffin.

Tam Reese, front, Clarence Griffin; and back, Tam Fitzgerald, coach Jim Jenks, Steve Parshall, and Ken Kuper stand, rackets in hand, ready for any foe.

Seniors Direct Backstage: Raiders Take the Bow

Seniors of the class of '69' made things happen. Although not always at the helm planning and organizing, seniors supported all school activities. There were senior officers in most major clubs, senior members on the Student Conduct council and Executive Board, and senior know-how behind assemblies, the laugh-in skit, and the yearbook drive. Under the direction of experienced seniors, band members perfected their techniques and went on to win awards such as the one won at Southport marching contest. Senior team members led varsity football, basketball, and baseball teams on to capture the best records of Ritter's history.

Through their efforts in their final year at Ritter, seniors proved their aim was not to get their names in the headlines, but to put Ritter's name there.

Senior class officers Karen Donlan, treasurer; Charles Reidy, vice-president; Phil Braderick, president; and Janet Koontz, secretary, made use of the PA system quite often throughout the year in their activities which stressed communication.

Graduation:

"A Time to Weep, a Time to Laugh"

Each senior homeroom was decorated by the freshmen for Senior Day. Here Maureen Baskerville, Marilyn Trauner, Marilyn Williams and Karen Ford admire autograph books designed by freshmen.

Seniors Kay Young, Jean Hawkins, and Linda Bullack wait anxiously downstairs for a signal to begin the march up and into the gym for commencement.

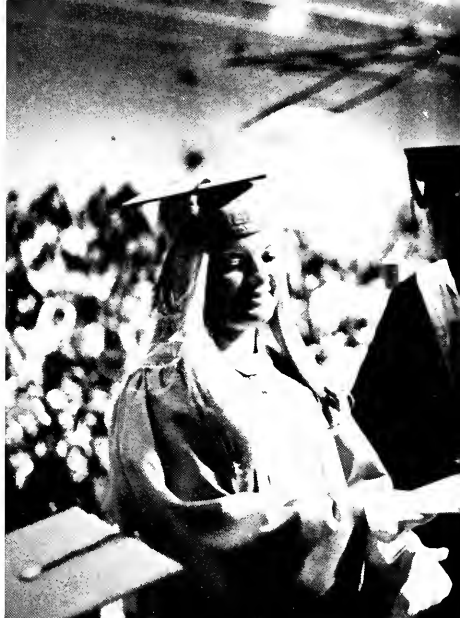

Activities of Senior Day included a cake party and hootenanny on the front lawn. Seniors Dana LaCivita, Jean Hawkins, Barb Cesnik and Jim Lawhorn enjoy one last informal get-together before graduation.

Officially acknowledging the graduation of Ritter seniors, Archbishop Schulte awarded a diploma to each student as he was announced by Father Cleary.

With mixed emotions Linda Bullock accepts visible proof of her completion of her high school career from the Archbishop.

Each of the 110 graduates of the class of 1969 were honored at Ritter's second commencement exercises. Winners of the special awards for leadership, school service, and scholastics were announced along with the scholarship winners whose monetary awards totaled over $60,000.

Student speakers Renee Treadwell and Charlie Reidy, chosen by the seniors themselves as representatives of the class, emphasized the challenge of today and our role as graduates in building a better tomorrow.

Soft and Summery: A Lovers' Concerto

Prom '69 lived up to its theme "Lover's Concerto" in a romantic summer garden, complete with gazebo. It was held at the West-side K. of C. and music was provided by the Bob Harshman band.

Dancing or floating; it's all the same to the king and queen as they share a traditional waltz.

Yearbook editor, Patty Treadwell, points out to co-editor, Mary Sekula, an amusing item in an exchange yearbook. Patty ably directed "Generation '69," sharing with the staff the know-how she had gained as literary staffer an "Generation '68."

No one will forget how much the success of "Generation '69" was determined by its energetic business staff. Business maderator Sister Madonna was assisted by Mrs. Carol Wunder, Kathy Dean, Maureen Baskerville, Cathy Briskey, and Karen Lambert.

The work of the literary staff of "Generation '69" was a September to June assignment. Pursuit of the "perfect word" was an almost daily activity for Meg Trauner, Mary Sekula, Nancy Knapp, Patty Bell, Denise Schmutte, Martha Ryan, Luann Grady, and Patty Treadwell.

'Generation '69'—Yes!

"Generation '69" represents what can be done by a small group of students with a large measure of sticktuitivity. From the feverishly enthusiastic ad drive carrying the yearbook well over its goal financially, through the many hours of planning and executing, to the thrill of the completed black and gold volume, yearbook editors and literary and business staffers proved that they were a vital part of the happening world they've presented here in work and picture.

Always the gentleman, Tom Weaver gallantly assists Cathy Briskey in distributing the long-awaited yearbooks.

Miss Generation '69

Extra Ordinary

This vivacious freshman boosted the Ad Drive by more than $375.00. Since the majority of these ads were of the $10 or $15 size, this amount represents a lot of footwork and determination. However, this is typical of the attitude Clara takes towards most things that she does—real effort and interest. Besides being an ardent supporter of every Ritter activity, Clara manages to keep her grades at the honor roll level, to enjoy sports and to find time for a good book.

Cardinal Ritter High School congratulates the second graduating class and wishes them God's blessings.

Dear Chris,
I love the nicest girl
I have ever known. But for a certain reason I don't like you. You know why I don't like you — I love you! Really, you are the nicest girl I have ever met,
and the best one I have ever loved. I hope you are the only one I love for the rest of my life. I can't write very well, but all I want to say is in these words above.

I love you,
Dan.

(an Oreo, (someone very special)
It's very hard for me to express myself on paper. Why is it that everytime someone hands you a yearbook your mind goes blank? Especially when that someone is your very, very, very bestest friend.

Anyway, I could wish you the best of luck in ART, in SCHOOL, with BOYS and with everything else, but you really don't need luck when you have talent - do you? You have such a warm personality that even if you didn't have all that talent you'd still be the sweetest person on earth.

We've spent so many good times together, and there's only this year and next before we are "big college kids." But I'm making the most of these two years left at Ritter just by having you for my best friend.

You are sweet, beautiful, trustworthy, friendly, talented and everything else that a boy could want. You'll find him soon?
Stay like you are and you'll go far!

Friends Forever,

Mary Jo

THANKS FOR EVERYTHING!

Dearest Kris,
God be with you
always.
Love,
Peggy Dorsey.

Dear Kris,
Thanks a lot for always being there when I needed someone and for being my good friend.
Love, Black
always Patricia
Dane

Kris, I do hope we get some more classes. Cause
I like funnier classes.
Pat Beck

Cris,

Hi, how are ya?
Isn't that a cool thing for a yearbook. Stay sweet always and never give of yes!

Cris

To someone who's got some thing in common with me, my brother.
